

Early Journal Content on JSTOR, Free to Anyone in the World

This article is one of nearly 500,000 scholarly works digitized and made freely available to everyone in the world by JSTOR.

Known as the Early Journal Content, this set of works include research articles, news, letters, and other writings published in more than 200 of the oldest leading academic journals. The works date from the mid-seventeenth to the early twentieth centuries.

We encourage people to read and share the Early Journal Content openly and to tell others that this resource exists. People may post this content online or redistribute in any way for non-commercial purposes.

Read more about Early Journal Content at <http://about.jstor.org/participate-jstor/individuals/early-journal-content>.

JSTOR is a digital library of academic journals, books, and primary source objects. JSTOR helps people discover, use, and build upon a wide range of content through a powerful research and teaching platform, and preserves this content for future generations. JSTOR is part of ITHAKA, a not-for-profit organization that also includes Ithaka S+R and Portico. For more information about JSTOR, please contact support@jstor.org.

Index.

A.

Abernethy, Mr, his charge against Mr Lawrence, 13, 31.
Allied Powers, their manifestoes, reviewed, p. 340, et seq.—connection of the feudal with the present system of government, 343—aspects of society arising from the hostility between its members and its institutions, 345—the allies violate their guarantee, and impose another dynasty on France, 348—guaranty the constitution, 349—constitution of April, 1814, provides for the king's acceptance, ib.—the king substitutes a charter, 351—return of Napoleon and the denouncing of him at Vienna, 352—Great Britain refuses to accede fully to the principles of the war for restoring the dynasty, 353—subsequent proclamation of the duke of Wellington, ib.—military occupation of France, 354—occasion for the interference of the allies ceases with the imprisonment of Napoleon, 355—laws violating the liberty of the press, in Russia, Holland and France, 356—treaty of Aix-la-Chapelle, ib.—laws establishing censorship in Germany, 357—Spanish revolution, 358, 359—congress at Troppau, ib.—protest of the English ministry, ib.—revolution of Naples, 360—in Piedmont, ib.—events of the Spanish history, 362—Cortes, description of, 363—alliance of Alexander with the Spaniards, 364—Ferdinand annuls the constitution of 1812, 365—revolution of 1820, 367—generalization of the principles of the allies, —conduct of Ferdinand, 368—probable effect of the success of the allies, 373—effect of Great Britain's joining the peninsular war, 374.

Anatomy, cerebral, described, 18—extracts respecting, ib.—differences between the varieties of formation, in the skulls of different races of men, difficult to decide, 21—size and proportion of the brain, 24, 25.

Aristotle, a new edition of his ethics, by Coray, noticed, 389.

Astruc supposes Moses to have used twelve documents, in compiling the books of Genesis and Exodus, 133.

Austin, supposed to have taken the idea of his 'City of God,' from Cicero's Republic, 38—a passage of the Republic preserved by being quoted by him, 39.

B.

Balance of trade discussed, 191 et seq.—see 'Prospect before us.'

Beccaria, remark of, on the punishment by death, quoted, 260—his distinction between the rights of governments and of the people to inflict death, 265.

Biot's suggestion with respect to the entrance of the sun into Leo, in the Zodiac, 238.

Blumenbach arranges the human species in five divisions, 19—his rule for determining the identity of species, 30.

Boston, failures in, and their causes, 202 et seq.

Brougham, Mr, his bill for securing the liberty of the press and reforming its abuses commended, 255.

Brown Dr, his work on cause and effect alluded to, 15.

C.

Calamata, proclamation of its Senate, 414.

Canstein press at Halle, for printing bibles at a low price, 311.

Capital punishments discussed, 259, 267.

Charters of the New-England provinces, originate the present written constitution, 73—account of, 78.

Chinese language, usually supposed difficult, 1—Mr Remusat's opinion of it, ib.—its characters, ib.—amount of necessary characters, ib.—forms of dictionaries, &c. ib.—want of elementary books, 3—account of the structure of the Chinese language, 4—number and nature of words and characters, 5 et seq.—modifications and dialects, 8—two forms of language, ancient and modern, ib.—language of the Chinese without inflections, 9—expressions of humility substituted for the personal pronouns, ib.—forms of address, ib. et seq.

Chinese literature, 3 et seq.—account of six thousand volumes of Chinese works, 3—beauty of their typography, ib.—an historical work in 149 volumes, ib.—a sort of encyclopædia, 4—Chinese literature valuable as a means of obtaining a knowledge of Chinese history, 12.

Chipman D., his law of contracts reviewed, 375 et seq.—account of Mr C., 376—influence of an elective judiciary, ib.

Cicero's 'Republic,' reviewed, 33 et seq.—discovery of the treatise has excited a strong sensation, 33—considered by Cicero the best of his works, 34—interesting from the mode of its discovery, ib.—the character and style of the treatise commended, ib.—the facts relating to the original composition of the treatise, 37—the treatise quoted by the Christian fathers, ib.—its disappearance, 39—its discovery, 40, 41—quotations, 46, 52—examination of the theories, 53—origin of society, ib.—forms of government, 55—constitution of the Roman republic, ib., 57—Mr Villemain's discourse and dissertations analyzed, 62, 67.

Common law of England, character of, 72—said by sir W. Blackstone to have no authority in the American plantations, 75. See Laws of Massachusetts.

Condorcet, his views of the consequences of indefinite increase of population, 298—his opinion of the possibility of eternal life, 301.

Coray, his reputation as a Grecian, 390—his edition of the Greek Library, ib.—translations from the introduction to the ethics, 391 et seq.

Codices rescripti described, 40, 41.

'Contraband of war' discussed, 150, 160. See 'Jay's treaty.'

Contracts for the payment of specific articles, 381. See Chipman.

Criminal law of England, its origin, 249—proposed deviations from, 250.

D.

Denon, his remarks on the ruins of Denderah, 235—makes a drawing of the Zodiac at Denderah, 236.

Desaix general, first notices one of the Zodiacs at Denderah, 236.

Dignity of woman, poem translated from Schiller, 285.

Division of labor, the doctrine examined, 428.

'Dream of Scipio,' preserved by Macrobius, alluded to, 35.

Dupuis refers the age of the Zodiacs at Denderah, to thirteen hundred, instead of thirteen thousand years, A. C. 237.

Dutch, they introduce the double principle, 'free ships, free goods,' and hostile ships, hostile goods, 118.

E.

Eichhorn, his opinion of the number of documents employed by Moses, 133.

Emigration from the Rhenish provinces, 92—its amount from Würtemberg and Switzerland, 93—difference between the German and American emigration, 94.

Edgeworth Miss, a new edition of her works, 383—progress of her reputation, 384—her character as a nov-

- elist, 385—circumstances under which she has written, 386.
- Establishments*, charitable, list of in London, 317—their influence in creating pauperism doubted, 318.
- Eton*, school at, visited by Dr Niemyer, 320—description of, ib.
- European languages*, possibility of their possessing two forms, by the progress of time, 9.
- Everett*, A. H. his new ideas on population, reviewed, 288 et seq.—extract from the preface, 289—origin of the controversy on population in Mr. Godwin's political enquirer, 290—character of Malthus' work, 291—the proposition of the ratios of food and population examined, ib. 293—true cause of the inequalities between population and supply, 294—extract shewing the influence of skill, as a new element of productiveness, 296, 297—population and food, advance in equal ratios, 298—the influence of vicious forms of government considered, 300—explanation of the moral checks to population, 301—simplicity of Mr. Malthus' proposition, 302,—doctrine of emigration, 304—analysis of Mr. Everett's work, 367, 310—character of the work, ib.
- Exchange*, bills of, 213.
- F.
- Fathers* of the christian church, their literary character mentioned with praise, 38.
- Ferdinand* of Spain, his conduct with respect to the constitution of 1812, 365, 368.
- Fever*, essays on, by Drs Miner and Tully, reviewed, 323 et seq.—history of the yellow fever at Chat-ham, 334, 335—discussion of the origin of the infection, 336—analysis of the cases at Middletown, 337—remarks on the tone of the works, 339.
- Festivals*, Coray's remarks upon their effect on industry, 394.
- Feudal system*, its tenures removed in New-England, by the effect of the royal charters, 73.
- Fourmont*, his catalogae of Chinese works in the royal library, 3.
- Forms of government*, Cicero's opinion of, 55, 56. et nota.
- Fontenelle*, his remark on the comparative superiority of the ancients and moderns, 249.
- 'Free ships, free goods,' discussed, 160, 178. See Jay's treaty.
- Fridolin*, a poem, translated from Schiller, 279.
- G.
- Gall* and Spurzheim, Drs., Mr Lawrence's opinion of them, 18—errors of, proved by Dr Warren, 31—Dr. Spurzheim does not reply to a challenge regarding a discovery in Anatomy, 32.
- Gall Ludwig*, his work on America. See Schmidt and Gall.
- Gallatin*, Mr, his sketch of the finances of the United States, 427.
- Gesenius*, his Hebrew Grammar, 136.
- Geographical Dictionary* by J. E. Worcester, reviewed, 180 et seq.—this edition greatly improved, 181—authorities stated, 182.
- Germany*, its poetry unsupported by royal patronage, 273.
- Goede*, professor, his travels in England commended, 311.
- Goethe*, and Schiller compared, 270.
- Godwin*, Mr, originates the controversy on population in the 'political enquirer,' 290—his view of political institutions, 291—his opinion of the effect of indefinite increase of population, 298—his ideas on government, marriage, and the laws regulating the descent of property controverted, 299.
- Gray*, Mr S. his work on population alluded to, 289.
- Greece*, character of the contest now waged there, 392, 400—monastic establishments in, 394—character of the modern Greeks misrepresented by travellers, 398—they are entitled to sympathy as christians, 399—as a civilized and enlightened people, ib—as an enterprising and industrious people, 400—their independence might be the subject of a guarantee among the great powers, 402—what has been done by the Greeks, in the present struggle, 404—a translation of their constitution, 404 et seq.—policy of acknowledging their independence, 413—proclamation of the Senate of Calamata, 415—contributions in aid of the Greeks, 418—missionary efforts, 419—grounds of sympathy with the Greeks, 422—duty of of this country toward them, 423.

H.

Hamilton, Mr, his report on Manufactures, 428.

Hydriotes, their commerce, 399.

Heresy, punishable by death, under the colonial code, 89.

Hindus, their alphabet, 8

Horne, Mr, his introduction to the study of the scriptures, reviewed, 130 et seq.—intended as a manual for the biblical student, 130—account of the work, 132—of the genuineness and inspiration of the scriptures, ib., 134—documents supposed to have been employed by Moses, 133—discussion of the principles of interpretation, 135—geography and antiquities of the scripture, 138—necessity of an acquaintance with the oriental languages to the biblical critic, 141.

I.

Instruction mutual, remarks on, 319—recommended by Coray to be adopted in Greece, 397.

Indians, North-American, their written characters compared to the Chinese, 8.

Inspiration of the scriptures, unnecessarily attacked by Mr. Lawrence, 29—considered with great learning by Mr. Horne, 134.

J.

Japanese, employ the Chinese characters and an alphabet, 8.

Jay, his treaty and the rule of '56—discussed, 142 et seq.—extract from 'a few notes &c.' 142—provisions never held contraband by the American government till the treaty, 144—Marshall's account of the circumstances attending the consideration of the treaty, by president Washington, 148, 150—the question of the effect of the 16th article, in sanctioning the British order, discussed, 150—discussion of the doctrine 'free ships, free goods,' 161—180.

L.

Laws of Massachusetts, new edition of, by professor Stearns and Mr Shaw, reviewed, 69 et seq.—examination of the departures of the laws of Massachusetts from the English law, 21—English common law differs from that received as such in America, 72—discretion used by the colonists respecting being bound by the English law, 74—their character modifies their laws, 77—account of the colonial code, ib.—church members only to be freemen, 79—administration of justice by the early colonists, 80 et not.—code promulgated in 1648, 81 et seq.—form of church worship, 82—militia laws, ib.—municipal provisions, 83—laws regulating marriage and divorce, ib.—provisions for public schools, 84—tenures adopted by the colonists, 84—registry of deeds, 85—administration of justice, ib.—no writs issued in the king's name, 86—method of taking the oath, 87—criminal law, ib. et seq.—abrogation of the colonial laws in 1688, 90.

Lawrence, Mr, his Lectures on Philosophy &c. reviewed, 13 et seq.—opposition to the publication of this work injudicious, 14—his opinion of the materiality of the soul, ib.—arrangement of the argument 15—varieties of organization not shown to exert their influence in mental phenomena by material arrangement, 17—general principle of Mr Lawrence, that the white excel the dark species, 20—the human species differ from the brutal not by gradation, 22, 23—size and proportion of the brain, and relation to the nerves, 25, 26—time of the connexion of soul and body unknown, 27—Mr Lawrence's hypothesis unsupported, ib.—notion of life explained, 28—needless attack on the inspiration of the scriptures, 29.

Lelorrain, M. executes the project of removing the Zodiac at Denderah, 239—obtains permission to dig for antiquities, ib.—arrives at Dende

- rah, ib.—opens the roof by gunpowder to introduce the saws, 245—embarks the Zodiac, 241, circumstances of its arrival at Cairo, Alexandria, and Marseilles, ib.
- Liberty of the Press*, project in the penal code of Louisiana for punishing attacks against, 253.
- Life*, theory of, 27–28—material life, Mr Schmidt's opinion of, 94–6.
- Livingston*, Edward, his report on a Penal Code for Louisiana, reviewed, 242, et seq.—See Penal Code of Louisiana.
- Louisiana*, state of, a report of a penal code for, reviewed, 242, et seq.—circumstances propitious to its trial, 243—necessity of a new code from the peculiar situation of Louisiana, 244.
- M.
- Mai*—discovers the treatise of Cicero de Republica, 39—success in his future researches anticipated, 41.
- Malthus*, character of his work on population, 291—his ratios examined, ib.
- 'Man,' an article in Ree's Cyclopaedia contributed by Mr Lawrence, referred to, 14.
- Manufactures*, encouragement of, 214, et seq.—see prospects before us
- Marshall*, chief justice, his account of President Washington's deliberation on Jay's treaty, 148–150—his decision in the case of the Nereid, 167.
- Martin*, M. St. his notice of the Zodiac of Denderah, reviewed, 233, et seq. see Zodiac of Denderah.
- Mavromichalis*, Prince, his character, 417.
- Middletown*, Conn., its general healthiness, 327—analysis of the yellow-fever cases in, 337.
- Miner* and Tully Doctors, their Essays on Fevers, reviewed, 323, et seq.
- Missionaries* Catholic, collect a mass of materials for the study of Chinese, 3.
- Montesquieu*, his theory of the origin of society, 53—his remarks on the effect of persecution, 89.
- Mosaic* law, the descent of property partly regulated according to, by the colonial code of 1648, 84.
- N.
- Niemeyer*, Doctor, his travels in England, reviewed, 311, et seq.—account of the author, 311—his works on Education, 312—remarks on the system of mutual instruction, 319—author visits Eton, 320—account of the college there, 322–3.
- New Monthly Magazine*, remark on an Essay on Population in, 289.
- O.
- Origin of Society*, Cicero's theory of, 53—opinions of Hobbes, Montesquieu, & Rousseau, 53–4—referred to natural instinct, ib.
- Origin of the human species*, enquiry respecting by Mr Lawrence, 29—his theory consonant to the scriptural, ib.—effects of cultivation in confounding the identity of species, 30.
- P.
- Penal Code of Louisiana*, Report on by E. Livingston, reviewed, 242, et seq.—circumstances propitious to this experiment of a code, ib.—code divided into six books, 245—account of the arrangement, ib.—origin of the criminal law, ib.—proposed modifications by Mr L. 250—regarding accessories, ib.—suicide, 252—project for punishing attacks on the freedom of the press, 253–5—kinds of punishment, 256—infliction of death proposed to be abolished, 257—the question of capital punishment discussed, 259–267—of punishments proposed, 267.
- Political Economy*, speculative in its nature, 425.
- Prospect before us*, &c. reviewed, 186, et seq.—causes of commercial distress, 187–189—balance of trade, 192—the drain of specie, ib.—remarks and facts relative to the balance of trade with England, 198—the character of specie as a circulating medium, 200—failures in Boston, ib.—205—debts of the U. S. to foreign countries, 208—freighting outfits to be deducted from the excess of imports—211 rate of exchange, 213—encouragement of manufactures by duties on importation, 215—effects of manufacturing industry on prices, 220—effect on the export trade, 221—effect of - legislative interference on various amounts of capital, 223—on the character and numbers of the population, ib.—on capital employed in ship building, 225—distribution of capital, 227.

- Petrarch* makes search for Cicero de Republica without effect, 39.
- Pinkney*, Mr, his character by Mr Wheaton, 128.
- Poetry*, Chinese, construction of, 10—11—Chinese Poem extracted, ib.
- Pothier* on the law of obligations, 382.
- Pouilly*, M. de, his dissertation on the early history of Rome, 58—vid. Roman Republic.
- R.
- Restrictive system*, its final effect.
- Remusat*, Mr, his Elements of Chinese Grammar, reviewed, 1, et seq.—see Chinese language—his opinion of the value of Chinese literature, 3—his account of a species of Encyclopædia, 4.
- Religion*, union of, with the state discussed, 68.
- Rhode-Island*, state of, differs from the other New-England states from the circumstances of its foundation, 71.
- Roman Republic*, early history of, note by Mr Villemain, 58, et seq.—earliest historians supposed to be five hundred years after the date of the foundation, ib.—facts by Livy quoted from the Greek historians, ib.—this theory contested, 59—the Great Annals, ib.—the public acts, ib.—public documents mentioned by Suetonius, 60—incoherence of the chronology, ib.—conclusion by Mr Villemain controverted, 61.
- Rome*, religious establishments of, 61, et seq.—priests at first believing the superstitions, 67—contempt occasionally shown the rites, ib.—the religious ceremonies a political engine, 68.
- Rousseau*, his theory of the origin of society controverted, 54–5.
- S.
- Sanscrit language*, affinity of, with other languages, 61—note respecting, 62.
- Sarcophagus* of Scipio Barbatus, removed to the Valeran, 255.
- Saint Chamans*, M. de, his work on political economy, 431—his doctrines, 432, et seq.
- Say*, Louis, on political economy, 424—his remarks on Smith's doctrine of the division of labor, 428.
- Schiller*, Friedrich von, his minor poems, reviewed, 268, et seq.—his enthusiastic character in youth, 269—his growing popularity, ib.—comparison of him with Goethe, 270—translation of a poem 'the Ideal,' 270—extract of a poem, ib.—his fondness for nature, 274—for the antique, ib.—attempts to revive the ancient chorus, ib.—translation of 'the complaint of Ceres,' 275, et seq.—'the song of the bell,' 278—'Fridolin,' 279—purity and domestic character of Schiller's mind, 285—poem on 'Woman,' 285.
- Schlegel*, A.W. his Indische Bibliothek described, 62.
- Schmidt* and Gall, their works on America, 270, et seq.—Mr Schmidt's opinion of America, 99—character of his work, ib.—differing opinions of the German writers respecting the climate, 100—account of Mr Gall, 105—extract from his journal, 108—his adventures at Antwerp, 113–7.
- Schopenhaur*, Madame, her account of an English dinner party extracted, 314.
- Scio*, household utensils of, exported as old copper, 420—its excellent seminary of learning, 399.
- Scipio* and Lælius their characters, 42.
- Senate*, Roman, constitution of, 63–7—little understood, 63—senators appointed by the kings and consuls, ib.—taken from the Patrician order, ib.—not holding their office for life, ib.—the list of the Senators by the censors, 65—exercise of important offices conferring a right to the senate subject to confirmation by the censors, ib.—a certain age required, 66—form of address, ib.
- Seybert*, Doctor, his account of the freighting business, 211.
- Slavery* recognized in Massachusetts by the colonial code of 1648, 82—not necessarily inconsistent with

- national freedom, 98—slavery in Rome, ib.—in Germany, ib.
- Smith*, Adam, his remark on the impolicy of founding manufactures on borrowed capital, 190—studied by the Framers of the American Constitution, 428
- Specie*, its character, as an article of commerce, and a branch of the circulating medium, 200—its influence on trade discussed, 201 et seq. see Prospect before us.
- Stearns*, professor, his revised edition of the laws of Massachusetts, reviewed, 69, et seq.
- Story*, Mr Justice, his useful efforts to introduce the prize law of Europe into the U. S. Supreme Court, 127—his definition of contraband goods, 153.
- Stuart*, Professor, his Hebrew Grammar commended, 135—his opinion of the nature and extent of types in the scripture, 138.
- Suicide* proposed to be expunged from the penal code of Louisiana, 251.
- Supreme court* of the U. S. its character and powers. See Wheaton's Reports.
- T.
- Terence*, report that he was assisted by Scipio and Lælius in his comedies, 42, et not.
- Testa*, Abbé, at Rome confines the antiquity of the Zodiac at Denderah to the Christian era, from the presence of Libra, 237.
- Titles of nobility* in modern Greece, remarks of Coray upon, 895.
- Tricheri*, its commerce, 399.
- Turkish power* sustained by the dissension of the christian cabinets, 401.
- Tyson*, Doctor, his plates of the skull of the ourang-outang mentioned, 24—quotation from a work of, ib.
- V.
- Varvaces*, a patriotic and liberal Greek, 397.
- Vertot*, omits noticing the constitution of the Roman Senate, 64—publishes a dissertation thereon, ib.
- Vlachbey*, a title of dignity in modern Greece, 396.
- Villemain*, Mr, the Paris editor of Cicero's Republic alluded to, 36—his note on the earliest history of Rome extracted, 58—his opinion controverted, 61,—account of his edition of the republic, 62—his style, ib.—talent of improvisation, ib.—contents of his discourse and dissertations, 63—his remarks on the constitution of the Senate, ib.—65—his examination of the religious establishments of Rome, 67.
- Visconti*, confines the antiquity of the Zodiac at Denderah to the Christian era, 237.
- W.
- Warren*, Doctor, extract from a work of, on the nervous and sensorial systems, 18—errors of Mr Lawrence corrected by him, 31.
- Waverly Novels* universally ascribed to Scott, 383-4.
- Weld vs. Hadley* case of, 381.
- Wheaton*, Henry, his reports reviewed, 118, et seq.—their publication interesting to the profession, 118—jurisprudence of the northern states, 119—interesting nature of the history of law, 123—history of American jurisprudence, 124—power of the Supreme Court to arrest the enforcement of unconstitutional laws, 124—the admiralty jurisdiction of the U. S. Court, 126-7—reports of the federal courts little studied, 128—character of Mr Pinkney, ib. et seq.
- Winthrop*, Judge, his experiments in simplifying the printing of the Chinese character, 13.
- Z.
- Zodiac of Denderah*, notice of, by M. Martin, reviewed, 233, et seq.—the Zodiac first observed by Desaix, ib.—Zodiac commences with the sign of Leo, 237—by the precession of the equinoxes referred by the disciples of Dupuis to an age of thirteen thousand years, ib.—by Testa and Visconti confined to the Christian era, ib.—supposition of M. St Martin that the Zodiac refers to the rise of the Nile, 233—date of the Zodiac, ib.—account of the process of its removal, by M. Leloirain, 239—circumstances of its transportation to Paris, 241—description of the Zodiac, ib.—hieroglyphics on the constellations, 242—state of preservation, ib.
- Zosimades*, the brothers, Greeks, liberal patrons of learning, 390.